At the November 12, 2014 Pima North Regional Council meeting, members approved the State Fiscal Year 2016 (SFY2016) Regional Funding Plan and the three year strategic direction for SFY2016-SFY2018. Next, the First Things First State Board will be presented with the Pima North funding plan on January 20-21, 2015 for consideration of approval. Once the funding plan is approved by the State Board, the strategies will evolve into Request For Grant Applications (RFGA), which are competitive bids released to the communities. In preparation for the RFGA process, some remaining details for the strategies outlined below are needed.

| Home Visitation   | $2,150,000        | Historically, a specific and separate RFGA has been issued for the home visitation model, Nurse Family Partnership (NFP) in the former Central Pima region. In addition to the NFP specific RFGA, another RFGA has been issued jointly with the other Pima Regional Councils to offer home visitation, with no specificity of model with the exception that it must be a recognized, evidence-based model. The NFP RFGA has been issued separately because of the significant cost and implementation difference associated with the NFP model. The NFP model has also been the home visitation model used when partnering with Arizona Department of Health Services (AZDHS) and leveraging of Maternal Infant Early Childhood Home Visiting (MIECHV) funds. There may be possible coordination opportunities with AZDHS in the future. | • Members need to affirm NFP as a home visitation model for SFY2016-SFY2018.
• Members need to affirm the number of RFGAs released specific to the Home Visitation strategy; two options presented at right. | Two options for members to consider:
Option One: Two RFGAs for Home Visitation
Should the NFP home visitation model be affirmed, the Regional Director recommends the NFP model to be issued as a separate RFGA specific to Pima North. Suggested funding amount: $1,100,000 to serve a minimum of 200 families.
The remaining funds, $1,050,000 would be included as part of a joint RFGA with Pima South for home visitation without specific mentions of models, with the exception they be evidence-based, serving a minimum of 350 families.
Option Two: One RFGA for Home Visitation
Pima North jointly issues a RFGA for home visitation with Pima South. Pima North would not specify a home visitation model and the one RFGA with Pima South would total $2,150,000, serving anywhere from 430 families to 716 families specific to the Pima North region. |

| Parenting Education     | $500,000         | Historically, the Pima Regional Councils have partnered to jointly issue RFGAs for Parenting Education. A variety of models and approaches have been utilized. For SFY2016, the Pima South Regional Council has allotted $80,000 to the Parenting Education strategy and intends to strategically target urban zip codes in the region through an early literacy intensive, evidence-based parenting education program, with the intent to cross-regionally issue a RFGA with Pima North. | • Members need to affirm the joint RFGA with Pima South, focusing on literacy intensive, evidence-based parenting education program.
• Members need to affirm any additional target populations and/or zip codes or communities.
• Members need to affirm the number of RFGAs released specific to the Parenting Education strategy.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | The Regional Director recommends the Pima North Regional Council jointly issues with Pima South Regional Council a RFGA that is literacy intensive and evidence-based. If the Regional Council opts to support a similar early literacy model currently implemented in the region, the recommendation is to focus on the urban zip codes and communities of the region. Suggested funding amount: A range from $100,000 to $300,000 with the intent to target the more urban zip codes and communities of the region. Remaining funds issued through a separate RFGA specific to the Pima North region with any identifying targeted populations, zip codes, communities, etc. Recommendation for no specific models identified, with the exception programs proposed are evidence-based. |
| Family, Friends and Neighbors | $150,000 | The former Central Pima partnered with the South Pima (now known as Pima South) region to issue a joint RFGA for Family, Friends and Neighbors. Due to the FFN model and using the approach of FFN caregivers meeting nearby in locations considered as community hubs, targeted zip codes were identified in the previous RFGA. For SFY 2016, the Pima South region identified the following zip codes: 85629, 85706, 85746 and 85756. | • Members need to affirm the targeted zip codes in the Pima North region.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | The Regional Director researched the communities/zip codes with higher numbers of young children and the lower numbers in regulated care. Also taken into account, areas that are known to have higher numbers of FFN care due to geography and/or cultural reasons.
• 85705 (Urban, Flowing Wells): 52 early care and education programs for 4,904 young children (also the most populated and highest number of children and families living below the poverty line).
• 85713 (Urban, Includes City of South Tucson): 4,542 young children with an available 69 early care and education programs.
• 85743 (Rural, Picture Rocks Area): 2,342 young children reside in the region with a total of 16 early care and education programs.
• 85653 and 85654 (Rural, Includes Avra Valley, Rillito, Marana). 1,420 young children with 13 early care and education programs; however there has been considerable growth in population that may not be accounted for in the Needs and Assets reports. |

Young kids expand learning and character skills with holiday traditions

When we involve young children in holiday traditions, we do more than make festive memories; we help them build character skills that are as important to their success in school and in life as natural intelligence and test scores.

Research shows these so-called “soft skills” – the ability to communicate, get along well with others, control oneself and delay gratification, among other things – impact various outcomes for kids, including test scores and high school graduation.

First Things First reminds us that the holidays naturally offer opportunities to build these critical skills in toddlers and preschoolers. For example:

Religious services – in addition to teaching children values, they give kids the opportunity to learn the importance of getting along well with others, to pay attention, and to control themselves.

Family gatherings and cultural traditions – especially having a specific role or responsibility in the celebration (setting the table for a family dinner, for example) – give children a sense of security and help them to build self-esteem.

Charitable contributions or events – teach children how to consider the needs and feelings of others.

The holiday season also offers many opportunities to teach or reinforce academic skills with young children. For example:

In holiday decorating, children can learn about shapes and colors.

Through helping with cooking or baking, they can learn about numbers and textures.

Singing along to festive music and telling stories about family traditions build vocabulary.

And, the #1 activity to help kids learn? Reading! 15 minutes per day with infants; up to 30 minutes a day for toddlers and preschoolers. The holiday season offers a bevy of books that introduce children not only to their own culture or family traditions, but others around the world.

By making young kids part of our holiday traditions, we are doing more than passing on holiday rituals and practices; we are giving them the skills that will be crucial to their success in school and beyond!
Simple toys best for young kids’ learning and your wallet

Thanksgiving is barely over and already we’re bombarded with ads heralding the latest learning toys for babies, toddlers and preschoolers. These toys promise fantastic educational rewards, sometimes with a price tag to match.

Turns out, the toys that can be most beneficial to children’s learning are also budget friendly. First Things First has compiled this list of simple toys that appeal to the way the brains of young kids learn; for example:

- Infants (under 1 year old) – Babies are fascinated by their surroundings, especially faces and bright colors. Older babies start moving around and experimenting with holding, moving and throwing objects. Toys that stimulate that initial curiosity include: board books; toys where touch creates sounds, flashing lights, etc.; safe, chewable toys; and, toys with mirrors. For older babies, toys they can push or pull and soft blocks are also appropriate.

- Toddlers (1-3 years old) – Toddlers are on the move. They start experimenting with words and test their muscles with climbing and jumping. They can also figure simple things out for themselves. Toys that encourage imagination and problem-solving include: books; pretend versions of everyday objects; toys to ride on or climb on; balls to roll or catch; and, building-type toys, including fill and dump varieties. For older toddlers, matching and sorting toys; large crayons or markers with plain paper; simple puzzles; and, musical toys are also appropriate.

- Preschoolers (3-5 years old) – Preschoolers are ready for more physical play. They are building their vocabulary and learning to get along with others – including sharing, taking turns and following the rules. Older preschoolers may be ready for simple concepts like numbering, letter sounds and reading basic words. Toys that help preschoolers relate to each other and the world around them include: books; toys that encourage imaginative play, like dress-up clothes and kid-size furniture; simple board games; counting and letter games; sports equipment suitable to their size; musical instruments, and, art supplies, including play dough, safety scissors, glue, etc.

By engaging in our children’s play and choosing gifts that promote creativity, we can help our kids build the skills they need to succeed in kindergarten and beyond. And, that’s the gift that keeps on giving!
