Enhancing quality of life is more than just a Mission Statement at Credit Union West. As the winner of the 2010 Yavapai County Community Foundation Business Philanthropist of the Year Award – Credit Union West creates opportunities to make a difference in a world full of need.

Every day we improve the quality of life for Yavapai County families by helping them to build or rebuild good credit and to develop a healthy regard for money management. The result is stronger families, stable communities and consumer peace of mind.

AGENCY SELF DESCRIPTION:

Boys to Men Mentoring Network is a non-profit, secular organization of men dedicated to helping guide boys 13-17 through their passage to manhood. Founded in 1996, there are now 32 Centers around the world. The challenge for boys in today's world is greater than ever. Boys have too few positive role models and far too many negative examples of masculinity. We provide boys with mentoring and modeling so that they learn integrity, accountability, compassion and respect. We help boys develop responsibility and guide them toward healthy manhood. Boys to Men has developed a three-part program that addresses the needs of boys: A Mentor Training designed to give mentors a deeper understanding of today's teenagers. A Rites of Passage Adventure Weekend that begins the journey for boys toward manhood with committed support from the men in the community. Group Mentoring where boys continue to interact with healthy male role models through bi-weekly community gatherings. The Prescott Area Center was formed in the Fall of 2008 and has produced four Rites of Passage Adventure Weekends, and also has an association with Yavapai Big Brothers/Big Sisters. The following Weekends have been scheduled for 2011: March 25-27, June 10-12, and September 16-18. (Revised '11)

MISSION:

Bringing Children Home (BCH) is a family reunification program, supporting parents in recovery from the stressful beginnings through reunification and rebuilding of their families in sober, supported and affordable environments. BCH empowers families with the knowledge and tools they need to begin breaking the generational cycle of addiction. Successful reunification entails a multi-faceted, multi-agency approach for healing families shattered by alcoholism and addiction. Our goal is to reunite parents, who have graduated from approved recovery support programs, with their children...many who are living in foster care or the care of relatives.

AGENCY SELF DESCRIPTION:

"Bringing Children Home (BCH)" is a three-phase recovery program offering a multi-faceted, multi-agency approach to healing families shattered by alcoholism and addiction. BCH Phase I consists of parental participation and completion of any approved recovery support program, coupled with completion of the 21-week long SRT "Responsible Parenting" classes offered on-site at Providence Place. BCH phase II participants reunite with their children in a fully furnished, affordable 2-bedroom apartment tailored to their needs. Parents are asked to make a one year residency commitment to BCH Phase II. During this phase, families are offered a wide spectrum of resources, including holistic case management supervision, referrals and support in the many areas including child care, health and development, individual and family therapy, continuing education and more. Once the family successfully completes their residency commitment of one year, the contents of their apartment becomes their "housewarming gift". The "Housewarming Program" is designed to motivate the families to complete their commitment and offers a fresh start for families who would typically not have the means to furnish a home otherwise. BCH Phase III supports the families, post-completion of their commitment, as they decide to move out into their own long term rental. Phase III is designed to provide optional case management support and resources to the BCH families for up to five years, encouraging the families to achieve and maintain long term sobriety. Our mental health programming seeks to motivate personal growth and change through the mediating presence of one or more horses in the therapeutic process. We recognize that horses are large, intelligent animals that can teach young people and their parents about living and working together and help them make discoveries about themselves. Understanding and respect for ourselves, each other and for the horses we work with provide the foundation for all of the work we do.

Our single-day, multi-day, girl only or co-ed programs combine the best aspects of adventure education and relationship horsemanship to create powerful and unique group learning experiences. Our Mental Health services provide children and families with support and motivation for personal growth and change through structured interactions with horses as part of the therapeutic process. This experiential approach to therapy uses horses to help youth. People identify and address a variety of challenges including addiction and victimization issues, as well as communication, relationship and behavior difficulties. We also identify barriers to walking/biking safely, like missing sidewalks or inadequate crossings, surrounding schools and work with City traffic engineers to correct these problems. Our partners include traffic engineers, local law enforcement officials, Yavapai County Health Services, parents, teachers and school administration. ### AGENCY SELF DESCRIPTION:

SHELTER

The shelter is at an undisclosed location in the Verde Valley since many people who use our services are recent victims of violent crime or may be in imminent danger. The shelter is staffed 24 hours a day, 365 days a year by shelter advocates who work directly with the residents. The advocates also maintain a hotline to respond to crisis calls and inquiries. Other services offered in addition to safe haven include case management; individual counseling for women and children; groups focused on domestic violence, legal issues, parenting, relaxation, cooking and more; legal advocacy; and a children's program.

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING

Transitional housing provides a step between shelter and fully independent living. Transitional housing subsidies and ongoing staff support are typically offered to residents for three to six months.

YOUTH OUTREACH

These services are provided through the YES (Youth Empowerment Services) Program. This program provides outreach and intervention to at-risk youth as well as educational groups focused on issues of self esteem, dealing with feelings of anger and aggression without resorting to violence, and making healthy choices.

LEGAL ADVOCACY

The legal advocacy program is staffed by two lay legal advocates, both of whom are bi-lingual. The program serves individuals and families in the shelter and throughout the Verde Valley who have civil legal concerns related to domestic abuse. Assistance with obtaining orders of protection, and preparation for and accompaniment to court appearances are among the many services offered. Weekly community-based domestic violence groups are held, one in English and another in Spanish. (Revised '11)

ARE YOU THINKING OF HAVING A BABY?

Deciding to become pregnant is one of the most important decisions you will make in your life. It is important that you start taking care of yourself before you start trying to get pregnant. Ideally, women should give themselves three months to prepare their bodies before getting pregnant. The five most important things you can do before becoming pregnant are:

- Take 400 micrograms (400 mcg or 0.4 mg) of folic acid every day for at least three months before getting pregnant to lower your baby's risk of some birth defects of the brain and spine. Taking a vitamin with folic acid is the best and easiest way to ensure you're getting enough.
- Stop smoking and drinking alcohol. Ask your doctor for help.
- If you have a medical condition, like asthma, diabetes, depression, or high blood pressure, be sure it is under control.
- Talk to your doctor about any over-the-counter and prescription medications you are using. These include dietary and herbal supplements. Some medicines are not safe during pregnancy. However, stopping medicines you need also can be harmful.
- Avoid contact with toxic substances or materials at work and at home that could be harmful. Stay away from chemicals and cat or rodent feces.

CONGRATULATIONS! YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE A BABY

Now that you are pregnant there are important things that you should do to help protect the health of your developing baby. You can take care of yourself and your baby by:

- Get early and regular prenatal care. Your doctor will check to make sure you and the baby are healthy at each visit.
- Take a multivitamin or prenatal vitamin with folic acid and iron every day. Getting enough iron prevents anemia, which is linked to preterm birth and low birth weight.
- Don't smoke, drink alcohol, or use drugs. These can cause long-term harm or death to your baby.
- Ask your doctor before stopping any medicines or starting any new medicines. Keep in mind that even over-the-counter medicines and herbal products may cause side effects or other problems.
- Avoid x-rays. If you must have dental work or diagnostic tests, tell your dentist or doctor that you are pregnant so that extra care can be taken.
- Eat a variety of healthy foods to ensure that you and your baby get all of the nutrients you need. Also, be sure to drink plenty of fluids, especially water.
- Unless your doctor tells you not to, try to get at least 2 hours and 30 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic activity a week.
- Don't take very hot baths or use hot tubs or saunas.
- Stay away from chemicals like insecticides, solvents, lead, mercury and paint (including paint fumes).
- Ask your doctor about childbirth education classes for you and your partner.

WELCOME HOME, NEWBORN

Going home with a new baby is exciting, but it can be scary, too. Newborns have many needs, like frequent feedings and diaper changes. Your baby will go through many changes during the first year of life. Here are a few tips that can help parents feel confident about caring for their newborn.

- You should feed your baby on demand. A newborn baby usually needs to be fed every two to three hours in the first month and less frequently as he or she grows older.
- Breast milk provides the best nutrition for your baby and helps build stronger immunity to illnesses.
- If you're breastfeeding, give your baby the chance to nurse about 10 to 15 minutes at each breast. If you're formula-feeding, your baby will most likely need about two to three ounces at each feeding.
- If your baby seems satisfied, produces about six wet diapers and several stools a day, sleeps well, and is gaining weight regularly, then he or she is probably eating enough. Talk to your doctor if you have concerns about your child's growth or feeding schedule.
- Introduce foods, such as baby rice cereal and apple puree, between 4 and 6 months of age. Ask your health care provider about when to introduce solids.
- A newborn will sleep for periods of three to four hours, for a total of 16 hours or more per day. Don't expect your baby to sleep through the night; the digestive system of babies is so small that they need nourishment every few hours.
- It's important to place babies on their backs to sleep to reduce the risk of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS). Remove all fluffy bedding, quilts, stuffed animals and pillows from the crib to ensure that your baby doesn't get tangled in them or suffocate.
- Never shake your newborn. Shaking that is vigorous can cause bleeding in the brain and even death.
- Your baby needs to get a number of vaccinations within the first year that protect against 10 major childhood diseases. Consult your baby's doctor to receive the vaccinations at the recommended times.
- Don't allow smoking or smoke around your baby.
- Keep your baby out of the sun. Sunscreen should not be applied to infants younger than six months.
- Make sure your baby is securely fastened into their car seat and that the car seat is installed properly in the back seat, facing back.
- Change your baby's diaper frequently to avoid discomfort and diaper rash. A baby will dirty diapers about 10 times a day.
- Give your baby lots of love and attention. Respond to your baby with your eyes, your voice and your touch frequently. Talk and read to your child. It is not possible "spoil" a baby at this age.

CARING FOR YOUR YOUNG CHILD

As your child grows, she will experience huge intellectual, social, and emotional changes. Your child will become increasingly independent and will explore and ask about her surroundings even more. Your child's personality and ways of thinking are being shaped by her experiences of the world.

- Provide a safe, loving, and secure environment in which your child can grow.
- Read to your child every day.
- Help your child develop language skills by talking to her. Use complete sentences and help her to use correct words and phrases. Ask her to name body parts and objects.
- Make sure that your home is a safe place for your child to explore. Put sharp objects out of reach. Lock up medicines, household cleaners and poisons.
- Encourage your child to engage in pretend play. Playing with other children helps her learn the value of sharing and friendship.
- Always watch children near water. Don't leave, even for a moment.
- Take your child for routine physical check-ups. Your doctor will check that your child is experiencing normal growth and development. Get childhood vaccinations on schedule.
- Take your child to the dentist at about one year of age. Help them learn healthy habits like brushing teeth.
- It is recommended that you have your child's vision and hearing checked before they start school.
- It is recommended that children not be placed in a forward facing car seat until they are at least 1 year old and weigh more than 20 lbs. Children weighing between 40 lbs. and 80 lbs. should ride in a booster seat restrained with lap and shoulder belts. All children should ride in the back seat.
- Do not leave your child unattended in the car, even for a few minutes.
- Provide healthy food that provides the nutrients needed for your child to have energy, build strong bones and fight diseases. As your child grows, help her choose healthy meals and snacks.
- Keep your children active. Exercise strengthens muscles and builds bone. Find fun activities that the whole family can do together.

EARLY CARE & EDUCATION

Parents are a child's first and most important teachers. But many families must rely on some form of out of home care for their children. It's important to choose a child care center or home that provides quality education to your young child. Quality early care and education helps prepare children for success in kindergarten, throughout their school years, and later in life. Quality programs are committed to continually improving. Look for centers that are accredited by a national recognized organization, such as National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) or American Montessori Society (AMS) or are participating in Quality First!, Arizona's new quality improvement and rating system.

QUALITY FIRST CHILD CARE PROGRAMS

Choosing a child care provider is one of the most important decisions parents and families make. Children in high-quality child care settings do better in school and develop better language and social skills. In Arizona, more than half of the children under six years old live in families where all the adults work, making quality child care an educational and economic necessity. First Things First created Quality First to ensure that all Arizona kids have access to the quality early learning opportunities that will help them arrive at kindergarten ready to succeed. Quality child care settings include: safe, healthy environments; highly educated teachers; classrooms and materials that stimulate kids at different stages of learning; and low staff to child ratios so that kids get the attention and support they need.

Step Up for Kids has a mission to support parenting in Prescott and beyond, and is committed to giving parents and children dignity as they engage in the community.

AGENCY SELF DESCRIPTION:

The founders of Step Up for Kids envision a community where children and their parents may live a dignified, supportive existence. Our vision is to ultimately create an aesthetically-pleasing drop-in center where new parents may go with their children to give and receive support during the emotionally rigorous times of post-partum-to-preschool parenthood. By creating and selling colorfully painted stepstools so that children may reach the sink to wash their hands, Step Up for Kids invites local businesses to pledge their support to an environment where the needs of a family are valued. Step Up for Kids offers greater community involvement in order to ease the challenges inherent to parenthood, and we collectively thrive as children develop healthy habits, and become increasingly self-reliant. As such, we are currently piloting a Mom-to-Mom support program in the home, to help new families adapt to their new, demanding role.
